

Files, Actions, and Wiki

Access a channel's actions, files and links, and Wiki in its right panel.

Uploading files

Drag and drop a file onto the messaging section to add it to a new message and share it with other channel members. After you send the message, the file appears in the Attachments folder in the Files tab of the right panel as well as in the message. Other members can download it from either of these locations.

Adding actions

In the Actions tab of the right panel, schedule actions or tasks to be completed. After you create an action, you can assign it to specific users, add a due date, or add subtasks. When an action is complete, check it to remove it from your list of incomplete actions.

Note: Your member type in a channel must be full collaborator or higher to add actions.

The screenshot shows a Slack channel interface. The top bar includes a search bar, a bell icon, and a user profile for David M. The main chat area displays a message history for Wednesday, February 10. Several messages are shown, including one from David M. at 09:32 AM stating "This message is deleted". Below this, another message from David M. at 09:34 AM also states "This message is deleted". A third message from David M. at 09:35 AM is partially visible, showing a document preview. The right sidebar contains the "Actions" tab, which is currently empty, displaying "No actions" and a large lightning bolt icon. Below this, there are buttons for "Show all actions" and "Add Action".

Editing the Wiki

Click the Wiki tab to view notes, links, and other useful information about the channel. If you see a pencil icon when you open the Wiki, you have edit access and can enter new information and enhance its appeal with markup.

To save changes you make to the Wiki, click Publish before closing the editor.

Next: The AirSend - Email connection

Also see:

Files view

Managing files and folders in Files view

Files in AirSend